

Newburgh Melee Sent Fan To Hospital After Game Deciding DUSO Standing

The Newburgh News Pictures Paint Smears Allegedly Kingston Work; Police Say Newburghers Started Fight; News Reports Stoning of Bus

The post-victory fracas at Newburgh Thanksgiving Day was really something and marked the return to the days in the Hudson valley football when fans became lusty partisans with no holds barred.

It recalls particularly the bitter rivalry which existed between Poughkeepsie and Kingston at any time that the football teams engaged in their autumn classics. Particularly does it highlight the Eastman Oval battle of 1921 when Kingston, with victory in its hand, was mobbed by Poughkeepsie rooters in the closing minutes of the game and Coach Hugh McIntyre's squad was escorted from town by policemen. Kingston no longer plays Poughkeepsie, a regrettable aftermath.

According to The Newburgh News Thursday's "swirling free-for-all" sent one young man to the hospital and left countless others nursing bruises and hard-thrown fists.

The News adds, "All the policemen involved said today they believed Newburghers started the melee." When the battle started

K.H.S. Holds Its 'Victory Rally'

Kias, Burke, Players Are Called Upon; Port Player Cheered

Several hundred wildly cheering, victory-saturated Kingston High students and alumni heard Coach G. Warren Kias sound the keynote for an undefeated football season in 1947, last night at a spectacular bonfire and rally at municipal stadium.

The rally celebrated Kingston's brilliant 13-0 Turkey Day triumph over Newburgh Free Academy and the first DUSO pennant for K.H.S. since 1936.

Asserting that no modern Kingston High School football squad has ever achieved an undefeated season, Coach Kias said it was not outside the realm of possibility for next year's Maroon eleven. He pointed out that virtually the entire line and five of the seven varsity backfield men would return.

Other speakers were Captain Arnold Bellini, Clarence Rowland and Coach Bill Burke.

"I'm very proud of Kingston High School's record for 1946," Coach Kias said, "but tonight I want to bring a challenge to you varsity men who return next season. I challenge you to bring to Kingston in 1947 its first undefeated football season in modern history. You have the stuff to do it and next year would seem to be the year. It is a goal toward which you should strive in your every thought and action on the football field next season."

With Dick McCarthy doing a nice job as master of ceremonies, the stadium celebration moved along at a brisk pace, climaxing a victory parade that began at the Broadway school and traveled up Broadway, Clinton avenue, North Front street, thence to the bonfire.

Led by Band
Led by the Kingston High School Band under the direction of Anthony Messina, and with the full complement of cheer leaders and majorettes the parade was made up of about 500 students. This group was joined by more than 100 adults at the stadium.

The program started with the playing of the national anthem and was followed by a review of

Warner Convicted

Meteorologist Found Guilty of Illicit Trading; Fined $2,500

Bellevue, Nov. 30 (AP)—Lewis Warner, 39-year-old meteorologist from New York City, today was convicted by an army court martial on charges of illicit trading in weather data and was fined $2,500.

Warner was given 10 months to pay the fine in four installments. He is to remain in custody until the details of his confinement at hard labor are worked out.

Warner was convicted of violating laws against trading in weather data for profit. Buying and selling weather data for profit is prohibited by law. Warner was charged with conspiring with other members of his family to conduct unlicensed export-import business.

County Pay Is Boosted By Board

Salary Appropriation Is $202,568 for Year for Increase of $38,000

Extra Help Given
Some Departments Are Given Added Workers for Efficiency

The salary schedule of county employees was revised upward considerably in the report of the Committee on Salaries which was presented to the Board of Supervisors Friday evening. The total increases recommended bring the salary appropriation up to $202,568 for the ensuing year, an increase of over $38,000. The current salary budget was $164,580. Of this amount $182,794.03 is for general county offices and is raised on the county at large. For highway superintendent's office the sum is $16,364.59 and for the county outside the city of Kingston $1,500.

In several instances the base salaries were increased and salaries of several county officials who received a base increase will not come under the living cost bonus system this year.

Not only was the salary schedule revised upward in keeping with the trend of the times, but there was a considerable increase in some departments to give increased efficiency. This was particularly true in regard to the sheriff's office where an eight-hour tour of duty will be introduced. Under the present system some of the men work continuously for 13 hours. Under the new schedule which will be set up it will be possible for the men to work on eight-hour shifts and sufficient men will be provided so that it will be possible to send two officers out at night on complaints where in the past it has been necessary frequently to send a single officer out on emergency calls.

Miners Face Fines As Lewis Digs in For Finish Fight

Senator Urges Volunteers Be Called if Miners Fail to Work After Truman's Appeal

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—Striking miners faced a threat of fines running into millions of dollars today as John L. Lewis, whacked by a major legal setback, dug in for a finish court fight with the United States government.

The walkout went into the tenth day and attorneys for Uncle Sam and the United Mine Workers' chief charted strategy for resumption of Lewis' contempt of court trial Monday while these developments tumbled into the many-sided national crisis.

Soft coal operations reported that a "very considerable number" of mining companies have filed applications with the government to fine miners $1 to $2 a day for each day they stay on strike.

Rebuked by some of his colleagues for expressing eagerness to resume negotiations with Lewis, Edward R. Burke, president of the Southern Coal Producers Association, scheduled a meeting of his board of directors Monday to determine his group's position.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) urged President Truman to call for volunteers to operate the coal mines, should the miners fail to return to work after a suggested appeal by Mr. Truman.

Many Industries Hit

As a result of the coal tie-up, more than 95,000 persons were out of work in related industries and an additional 167,000 have been furloughed until Monday to conserve fuel.

The prospect of fines against Lewis' 400,000 striking miners stems from terms of his contract with the government—the agreement Lewis has declared void and which the government holds is still in effect.

The pact provides that fines can vary from $1 to $2 a day, depending upon the producing area. Thus if all the coal companies involved in the current strike should file applications for fines—and the government should assess the full penalty for the 10 days of their walkout—the total assessment to date would range between $4,000,000 and $8,000,000.

It was Burke who disclosed that a "very considerable number of coal companies" have filed applications for fines.

Can Penalize Firms

"The provisions of the coal contract are clear," Burke told a reporter. "The companies not only can file these applications for fines, but they must. There is a penalty against them, too, for failing to insist that the fines be levied."

He explained the strike penalty formula originally was put in the contracts at the insistence of the union, which wanted a means of punishing members who pulled wildcat strikes.

Usually the fines go to charities selected by the operators and the union. Under the contract with the government, however, the money would be placed in a miners' medical and hospital fund.

Burke Criticized

In calling a meeting of the board of the Southern Coal Producers Association, Burke acted after 10 members of the 27-man board signed a statement that he

Porter Resigns, Merger Of O.P.A.-C.P.A. Is Nearer

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—Merger of O.P.A. and the Civilian Production Administration moved a step nearer today with the President's acceptance of the resignation of O.P.A. Chief Paul Porter.

Even as it entered its final days as an independent agency, the O.P.A. moved for a finish fight in Federal District Court over whether still another of its scarce powers—sugar rationing—may go by the boards.

The continuation of sugar controls, a top official told a reporter, may be decided next Wednesday when a federal judge hears an attack on legality of rationing regulations brought by the Maple Leaf Dairies, Inc., of Brooklyn, N. Y.

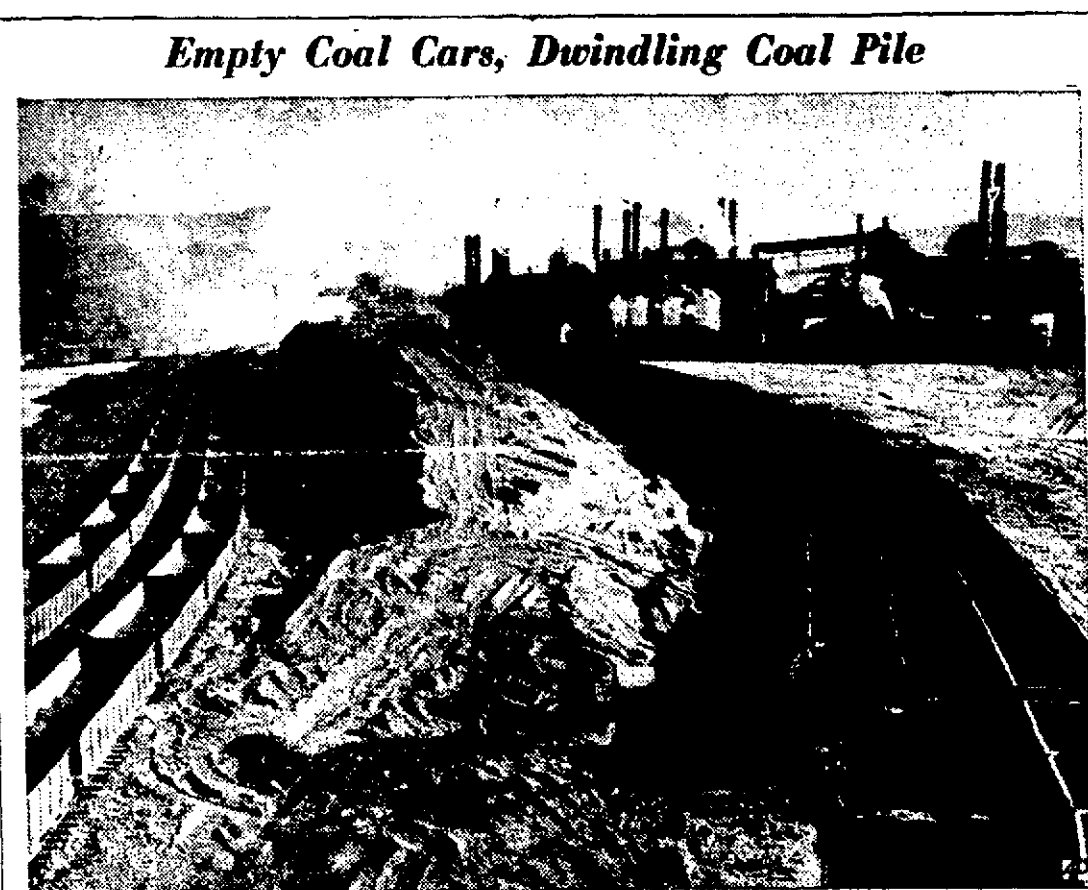

The resignation of Porter, who succeeded Chester Bowles last February, was dated November 15 and effective December 4.

It was made public by the White House last night in a move

Program Is Based on Atomic Age

General Drum Tells of Designations; 156th to Return to State Armory

To Absorb Guard
Schwenk Command Will Be Reorganized as Disaster Corps

Kingston will have a vital part in the new program of state defense outlined today by Lt. Gen. Hugh A. Drum.

Reorganization of the State Guard into federally approved National Guard units, will begin tomorrow General Drum announced, and a Disaster Corps will be established to handle emergencies resulting from the "possible use of atomic weapons in the form of bombs, rockets or guided missiles by any future enemy."

Three units now occupy the State Armory on Manor avenue and are A, B, and Headquarters of the 156th Regiment, State Guard. These took the place of the 156th Regiment artillery units, which were federalized in 1940.

Kingston will be a part of the 27th Division and the official designation will be 156th-F. A. Artillery. The units will be the 10th Infantry from the Troy-Schenectady area; the 108th from Syracuse-Binghamton; the 174th from Buffalo; Field Artillery units in Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, Binghamton, Syracuse and Buffalo, and Division Special Troops, Engineer and Medical Units from various upstate cities.

Little Information Locally

It was said today at the armory that little or no information had been received about the State's plans, nor could any suggestion be offered about who might be appointed commander.

Lt. Col. Ernest A. Stueding and Armorer Matthew Bess today supplied the following list of officers who left Kingston for federal service with the 156th Field Artillery. Commander was Major Charles N. Behrens with a staff consisting of Captain Harold Clayton (later a lieutenant colonel), Captain E. A. Stueding, Captain Fred Coombs; Lieut. Richard Craft, later killed in a plane crash at Fort Bragg; and lieutenants Robert Reinhold, Tom Flynn, Andrew Schrock, John Mikes and Andrew Mitchell.

Commanding officer of the State Guard is Major John Schwenk, who today said that Kingston and Poughkeepsie will be designated as the 156th Battalion. Units at Kingston will be Battalion Headquarters, Battery A, and Headquarters Company, while Poughkeepsie will be designated as Batteries B and C. At present Kingston and Catskill form a battalion, but under the new program Catskill will have a medical ambulance company.

The state's defensive pattern, Drum said, follows acceptance some months ago by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of the War Department allotment to the state of 62,000 troops, including 37,000 ground forces and 4,500 air-force personnel.

Drum told a news conference that the Disaster Corps was designed to meet "grave domestic disturbances of disaster control, relief and internal security" if the

French Socialists, Reds Fail to Make Progress in Discussions

Paris, Nov. 30 (AP)—A delegation of French Socialist and Communist leaders met today but failed to make any progress in discussions on the make-up of the future government.

"We got no precise replies from the Communists, other than a promise to respect the ministerial solidarity if they succeed in winning the leadership of the cabinet," a Socialist said.

The Communists, who claim the premiership for their leader, Maurice Thorez, will have to await the Socialist National Congress next Tuesday before learning of the Socialist will agree to enter a leftist "Popular Front" government.

Short Circuit Blamed For $5,000 Church Fire

Congregation Agudas Achim Blaze Discovered by Sexton; Firemen Forced to Cut Through Wall

Fire, believed to have started from a short circuit in the electric wiring, caused damage amounting to at least $5,000 in the Congregation Agudas Achim Synagogue at 24 West Union street early this morning.

Fire department officials said indications pointed to the fact that a short circuit had caused the fire, and estimate of the damage to the building was made by Joseph Epstein, president of the synagogue, who said that when repairs were made the amount might be even larger.

The fire was discovered at 8 o'clock by the sexton who telephoned the fire department. When the firemen arrived they found that the fire had evidently started on the floor of the synagogue and burned up toward the roof in the front of the building.

In order to get at the fire the firemen found it necessary to tear down a large portion of the interior wall fronting on West Union street.

His Bride is 13, So Hubby's in Jail

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 30 (AP)—Martin H. Baker, 23-year-old bridegroom who told authorities he did not know his young bride was only 13 years old until they had been married a month, today faced justice court examination on a charge of statutory rape.

The girl, Marjorie Sage Baker, held in a juvenile detention home while her husband and mother were in jail, said in a statement released by Prosecutor Menso R. Bolt that she married Baker two months ago because she was afraid she might not be promoted from the seventh grade in school.

Bolt said she told him both her husband and Justice of the Peace John C. Loucks, who married the couple September 17, believed her age to be 16.

Baker appeared before Justice Loucks yesterday and demanded examination on the rape charge. He was remanded to county jail under $500 bond with the examination set for December 10.

Marjorie's mother, Mrs. Blanche Baker, was also present.

Condition Still Critical

William Goodfellow, 17-year-old senior of the Port Jervis High School football team, was reported as still in a critical condition at St. Francis Hospital in Port Jervis.

Goodfellow suffered a brain concussion during the Port Jervis-Middletown game Thanksgiving Day afternoon, and late that night was operated on at the hospital.

Generals Convicted

Council May Get Over Hurdle of War Reparations

Russian Concession Points Way Toward Hope of Axis Satellites

New York, Nov. 30 (AP)—A new Russian concession, under which Yugoslavia and Greece would receive equal treatment in the division of war reparations, heightened hopes today that the Foreign Ministers Council would hurdle soon its chief remaining obstacle in the way of peace pacts for the axis satellites.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov accepted the 50-50 formula yesterday only after a long argument that Yugoslavia, as a country twice as large as Greece, should receive double the reparations paid to Greece. Final settlement of the issue may be reached at a 4 p. m. meeting today.

At the same time, it appeared likely Molotov might succeed in his quest for a substantial reduction of the reparations levy on Bulgaria. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes supported tentatively a proposal which would cut the assessment from $125,000,000, as recommended by the Paris peace conference to $65,000,000.

Three different formulas for reparations from Italy and Bulgaria were offered as the Council juggled figures for four hours last night without reaching a final settlement. All of them included $100,000,000 for Russia. They were:

U. S. Proposal
The United States proposal— from Italy, $125,000,000 for Yugoslavia, $100,000,000 for Greece; from Bulgaria, $20,000,000 for Yugoslavia, $45,000,000 for Greece.

This would give both countries a total of $145,000,000 each. Ethiopia would get $25,000,000 from Italy.

The French proposal— from Italy, $125,000,000 for Yugoslavia, $105,000,000 for Greece, $5,000,000 for Albania and $25,000,000 for Ethiopia; from Bulgaria, $30,000,000 for Yugoslavia and $50,000,000 for Greece. This would give Greece and Yugoslavia $135,000,000 each.

The Russian proposal—the same figures as the French proposal in the reparations from Italy, except that Albania's allotment would be doubled. It would give Yugoslavia $135,000,000 from Bulgaria and Greece $35,000,000. This would give both countries $140,000,000.

Britain, meanwhile, stood pat on the recommendations of the Paris conference which awarded Greece and Yugoslavia an even $100,000,000 each from Italy and equal division of $125,000,000 reparations from Bulgaria.

The four diplomatic chiefs divided on another unsettled question—how much compensation should be paid by Italy for wartime destruction of allied property in that country.

Byrnes, who previously had advocated a 25 cents on the dollar settlement, offered to compromise at the Russian figure of fifty cents on the dollar. Britain and France are holding out for 75 cents.

Porter Resigns; Merger Is Nearer

Porter resigned today because he will become president of Broadcast Music, Inc. C.P.A. Chief John Small has indicated he, too, is anxious to return to private business.

As for the court case against O.P.A., the official who talked with newsmen said that if the attack on the agency's formula for rationing sugar to institutional and industrial users is successful, "to all practical purposes all sugar rationing is out."

He explained that the suit is aimed at the system by which O.P.A. fixes sugar quotas for these users—the "historical base period" formula.

The Maple Leaf firm, which has a sweetened condensed milk plant at Nashua, N.H., obtained temporary restraining order Wednesday to prohibit O.P.A. from making sugar allocations under an amendment to its regulations.

This amendment holds that firms not engaged in manufacturing sweetened condensed milk prior to August, 1946, may not obtain sugar for that purpose.

Kingston Gets Three Guard Units

National Guard were called into federal service.

Drum said it was "highly questionable if any remote government agency or extemporized volunteer group could furnish prompt or adequate control or relief" in the "face of possible panic or mass terror following an attack with atomic weapons."

He added: "The lessons of World War II, coupled with the known and foreseeable scientific weapons, demand counter and to alleviate the effects of air missile attacks on civil localities suddenly made and without adequate advance warnings."

"Provisions for these emergencies should not await the time when such blows are struck. Forces should be available for this type of emergency at all times if our people and their possessions are to be assisted and protected under such dire circumstances."

45,000 Infantrymen
Col. George Barry placed the strength of the Disaster Corps at 45,000 infantrymen to be maintained in an active status for "immediate use" and described it as "well setting the pattern of the future in civilian protection."

Drum said he believed 50 to 70 per cent of the present state guard personnel, estimated at 17,000 men and others, could enlist in the National Guard troops which he described as "The capacity of the existing armories" toward the War Department allotment. The balance would be raised when federal aid became available for building more armories and other facilities.

Strength Is 28,000
Authorized pre-war guard strength was 28,000.

A total of 199 aircraft has been allocated to New York National Guard air units, Col. Erickson S. Nichols of the army air forces, said. Included in the equipment is radar and communication apparatus, 25 single-engine pursuit planes for fighter squadrons and 16 twin-engine bombers for light bombardment squadrons.

Col. Hampton Anderson said the state would have two infantry divisions under the National Guard reorganization plans—the 27th with headquarters at Albany and the 42nd at New York.

As outlined by Anderson the 42nd would include: The 71st, 106th (old 69th) infantry regiments; the 104th and 105th field regiments.

Cost of Living Bonuses
By the resolution of the committee the cost of living bonuses were increased to 25 per cent of base salary except where there was a flat salary. In the past the bonus has been either 10 per cent or 20 per cent based on the base salary of the employee, those getting not more than $1,500 received the 20 per cent and those above $1,500 received 10 per cent.

The resolution also made the office of Board of Elections a full time job and fixed the office hours from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on week days except that the office will be closed on Saturdays and during July and August the hours will be from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. with the noon closing on Saturdays. The office will also be open on primary day, days of registration and election day until the polls are closed.

The report of the committee was received and a resolution was offered that the sum of $182,704.03 be raised on the county at large; that $16,364.59 be raised for highway account and $1,500 on the county outside the city of Kingston. Over under the rule.

The report of the committee on Printing Proceedings for 1946 reported only one bid received, that of The Freeman Publishing Company for $3,477 per page. Five hundred of the books will be paper bound and 200 cloth bound. The Freeman Publishing Company.

The Committee on Salaries also reported the salary schedule for stenographers, typists and clerks to be $1,400 for Class A having at least two years experience; $1,300 for Class B, having one years experience and $1,200 for Class C, those having less than a years experience.

Resolutions of the previous session were called and adopted and the Board adjourned to Monday at 7:30 o'clock.

Shoplifter Returns Purloined Article
"I took it, but here it is, back again," was the brief message written on a tiny slip of paper, which with an enclosure was received by Manager Henry Jones of the Woolworth store Friday.

The envelope, postmarked Wednesday afternoon, contained a 50-cent article which had been taken from one of the display counters in the store.

Mr. Jones said that the store sustains many losses from acts of this nature, although it is unusual to have the people who help themselves demonstrate that they still have a conscience, by returning the pilfered articles. In many cases the shoplifters are caught in the act and the stolen goods are retrieved, he said. Where young boys are involved they almost always have one reply when caught, "I won't do it again."

Miners Face Fines As Lewis Digs in For Finish Fight

lacked authority to propose resumption of contract negotiations with Lewis' United Mine Workers. Burke, who held out against Lewis' demands in the 59-day coal strike last spring which led to government seizure of the pits, said "we are willing to talk (with the miners) about a shorter work week—wages, hours and everything else that's connected with a contract."

Disasters' Views
Issuing a "disclaimer of any connection with Burke's views, the 10 dissenting members of his board said in a statement: "We believe that talk at this juncture of renewal of operator-union negotiations tends only to belaud the fundamental questions that are now at issue in the strike of the union against the government in violation of their contract and in flagrant disregard of the order of the Federal Court."

Burke, whose group represents a powerful segment of the coal industry, said in reply: "Only Way, They Say"

"The only way we can get coal mined is by making an agreement, and the only way we can get that agreement is to start negotiations, and the sooner the better."

the complete K.H.S. cheering repertoire. The large crowd gave a loud cheer for Bill Goodfellow, 17-year-old Port Jervis High School senior who was critically injured in the Port-Middletown game Thursday. The program wound up with the singing of the school alma mater.

Congratulate Players
Coach Willard Burke, the miracle man who piloted Kingston High from the depths of two crushing, early-season defeats to the pinnacle of the DUSO League, congratulated his players and said the success of the 1946 squad was due to several factors.

Mr. Burke pointed out that the team had received the solid, unwavering support of the people of the community. In addition, he said, the squad was one of the hardest worked he had ever coached and his corps of assistants led by Russ Cunningham, had done yeoman service. He said that there was no stopping Kingston once the players began to believe in themselves.

Clarence Rowland, Kingston High School's most ardent football supporter and idol of K.H.S. pigskin squads for more than a decade, said he was overjoyed at the splendid Kingston triumph. He said he was proud of this great Kingston team and happy to note the splendid reaction to Bill Burke's work in the community.

Mr. Rowland, incidentally, sponsored the broadcast of the Kingston-Newburgh contest which is believed to have attracted one of the largest purely local audiences in W.K.N.Y. history.

Captain Arnold Bellini, who with diminutive Billy Blume will not be back next season, thanked the student body and fans for their unwavering support. He said he was proud to have captained one of the great squads in Kingston history and modestly asserted that everyone shared in the glory.

Principal Clarence Dumm and Superintendent of Schools Arthur Laidlaw sent their regrets for not being able to attend.

The entire program, sponsored by H-Y, was arranged by Milton Gazlay, with Coach Kias as adviser.

Kingston Stores Crowded, Holiday Buying Underway
The holiday shopping season is on in full swing in Kingston stores, as was apparent from the crowds that kept clerks in the various business places busy Friday night.

The manager of one prominent Wall street store, which was thronged with buyers, said, "We are doing a tremendous business. The only trouble is that the merchandise being sold can't be replaced at the present prices."

Although merchandise is coming into the market that has been missing during the war years, the one complaint that appears to be general is that merchants are unable to get wanted goods, particularly in the better lines.

Vandalism Reported In Two of City Parks
Acts of vandalism on the part of a group of boys are being reported to police headquarters. Yesterday the police were notified that a group of 10 boys were attempting to demolish the bleachers in Hasbrouck Park, and that another group had damaged the fireplaces in Forsyth Park.

The police are conducting an investigation in both cases. Several days ago a group of boys started grass fires in Hasbrouck Park, which damaged part of the fence at the park as well as a large tree.

SNOW FLURRIES TODAY
While thermometers in the city were registering as low as 26 degrees at 8 o'clock this morning, flurries of snow filled the air. Throughout the morning hours the skies were heavy and overcast. Last year on November 29, a heavy snow deposited eight inches of snow in the city.

Binewater Residents Are Entertained at "Stokes Point"

About 40 old Binewater friends and neighbors were entertained Thanksgiving Day at "Stokes Point," country residence of W. M. Willy, maitre d'hotel of the Hotel Pierre, New York city, formerly of the Waldorf. At the last minute Mr. Willy, who had issued distinctively original invitations for the afternoon reception, found that he would be unable to be present and his friend, Fred Illert, the Crown street restaurateur, capably acted as host.

Mr. Illert is the brother of the late Charles Illert, long of the Ritz Carlton Hotel, New York, who built the "Stokes Point" residence in 1928. It is a striking three-story brick house of English type architecture, with landscaped grounds. Charles Illert sold it some time before his death. His friend, Mr. Willy, who formerly was his assistant at the Ritz Carlton, and who long had a desire to own the property purchased it last September as a country estate. The property was purchased in 1857 by Christopher Stokes, who occupied it for many years.

Those who loaned ceremonial objects were Mrs. Frank Plotke, Miss Lucille Kline, Mrs. Raphael Klein, Mrs. Philip Lutzn, Mrs. Sol Schwartzberg, Rabbi Bloom and Raphael Klein.

An exhibit of paintings by Abel Pam, popular Palestinian artist, were loaned by Mrs. Harold Mandel. All of the decorations for the display were done by Arthur Fields and Leon Greenberg. The various booths were manned by Mrs. Murray Fletcher, Mrs. Nathaniel Gross, Mrs. Herbert Bloom, Mrs. Frank Plotke, Mrs. Stanley Danziger, Miss Janice Kenik Sol Schwartzberg, Philip H. Klein and Mrs. David Kline, hospitality chairman. The Misses Barbara Kline and Adele Friedman were ushers.

Programs Sunday

The special program Sunday afternoon was attended by more than 125. It was conducted by the Kingston Jewish Community Council of which Raphael Klein is chairman. Miss Lucille Kline and Mrs. Frank D. Plotke were co-chairmen. In addition to the guest speakers, Judah Katz, area worker of the Jewish Welfare Board, outlined the work of the J.W.B. and stressed the need of a Jewish Community Center. Mrs. Nat Kevers, violinist, accompanied by Mrs. Henry Singer, played several selections.

Sunday morning more than 150 children of the Sunday schools attended a special children's hour with Mrs. Frank Plotke as chairman. Mrs. Levinger spoke to the children; Mrs. Alex Parnett conducted a story hour reading from The Adventures of K'ot'ot'ot' by Sadie Rose Wellerstein; and Mrs. Arthur London led the music.

A WIFE COMES TO GRIEF

The discourtesy shown by a wife to her husband's employer was perhaps understandable, but even so not quite excusable. Her letter explains: "My husband works for a man whom everyone in his employ calls by his first name. I have never heard anything but 'John' or on rare occasions, 'John Smith.' It seemed natural for me to telephone and ask for 'John Smith' the day when he was in. I understand that I have been criticized for not asking for Mr. Smith. Will you tell me, was I wrong? And how wrong?"

I am sorry to have to answer that you were very impolite. The fact that your husband happens to call him 'John' still does not give you, who are a stranger to him, any such privilege.

Thank You Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: Would printed cards be all right to send to the clubs and organizations which my late deceased husband belonged to, thanking them for their flowers and masses? Would it be wrong to send these same printed cards to personal friends?

Answer: Personally written messages, no matter how short, always show greater appreciation (and are, therefore, in better taste) than any printed card. To personal friends printed cards are really unfeeling; to organizations they would be permissible but, even so, not especially appreciative.

Name for a Stepparent

Dear Mrs. Post: I am married to a man who has grown daughters, several grandchildren. The one daughter always introduces me as "my father's wife." (1) Shall I in turn introduce her as "My mother is living and there are several grandmothers, so what would you suggest that the grandchildren call me?"

Answer: (1) Yes. (2) What they would like, and you approve. In other words, compromise with them for a name pleasing to you both.

Funeral Home Open House

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be fitting and proper to dedicate our funeral home chapel and perhaps at the same time have "open house" so people could look around? Should we serve refreshments and if so, what? How simple may they be?

Answer: I see no objection to your inviting people to the dedication, but I think it would be best not to serve refreshments.

School No. 7 News

The hot lunch program, inaugurated at No. 7 School in September, is being run very successfully and to the advantage of our children. It is a great service to the many non-resident children as well as to those boys and girls living too far from the school to get home for a hot lunch.

Mrs. Hulton and Mrs. Anderson, who operate the program, serve approximately 90 children each day. The boys and girls from the first and second grades are served at 11:15 while the children of the upper grades are served after 11:45 a. m.

The lunch program is run in restaurant style, each child being served individually at the tables. The meal consists of a bottle of milk, sandwiches, meat or meat substitute, vegetable, and fruit.

Thursday evening, November 21, a meeting was held in the school to discuss the feasibility of forming a parent-teachers' organization. Approximately 50 parents and teachers attended. After a short discussion of various types of organizations, it was decided by vote to have an informal organization to meet at a time to correspond with the issuance of report cards. Harry Rigby Jr. was unanimously elected chairman and the meeting was turned over to him. Mr. Rigby appointed the following parents and teachers as members of the program committee: Mrs. Arthur Oudemans, Miss Sara Israel, Miss Ethel Salzman, Worthington Ryder, Harry Wells and Stephen Hyatt. The date of the next meeting was set for the first Monday in February at which time a program of interest to all parents and teachers will be presented.

On Tuesday preceding the Thanksgiving Recess an interesting Thanksgiving Day program was given in Assembly by the pupils of the fifth grade. After singing "The Star Spangled Banner" and giving the Salute to the Flag an enjoyable play entitled "Pumpkin Pies" was given by the pupils of Mrs. Weber's room. Those children taking part were: Betsy Rigby, Sandra Berger, Marjorie Teetzel, Anita Pinkus, Nora Sheehan, Elwin Rose, Ronald Marlin, Arnold Buck, Eddie Hurst, Francis Fiore, Stanley Malkin, and Mark Silk. Johnny Comstock was prompter.

The pupils of Miss Gorse's room provided balance to the program with several recitations and musical selections. "November" was recited by Robert Paken and "The Corn Song" by Edith Ellsworth. Arnold Buck played a piano solo entitled "Test Flight."

The Assembly closed its exercises with the singing of "America the Beautiful."

Debarcation Starts

Famagusta, Cyprus, Nov. 30 (AP)—Debarcation of 3,800 illegal Jewish immigrants—the largest group ever brought to the Cyprus detention camp from Palestine—was started today from three British vessels anchored in Famagusta Roads. Authorities said the landings probably would occupy several days.

The annual collection for the Industrial Home was taken during the last school week in November. Many of the boys and girls of the school contributed canned goods or money. Four cases of canned goods were donated to the Home.

Warns Vets Against Lost Time Angle In Picking Wives

Boston, Nov. 30 (AP)—Veterans, you are scaring the girls with your "wife-hunting" approach.

Dr. Herbert D. Lamson, Boston University expert on courtship, said in an interview the girls are complaining that the boys are "too serious" too soon.

"They feel," he added, "the boys are bent on wife-finding in a hurry to make up for lost time."

Dr. Lamson, however, derides the old adage that marriage and studies don't mix.

"I very definitely feel that veterans in college who are older and more mature can mix marriage and studies without lowering their grades," he said.

"Marriage affords them more stability. When students have known each other for a long time and have the consent of their parents, I see no reason why marriage should be postponed."

He warns, however, that a wife can break her student-husband if she demands too much social life, and attributes the large number of post war divorces to unsound marriages during a period of emotional tension.

"Men coming home from war, rushed into marriage with girls they did not know well," he said, "or they did not allow themselves enough time with their former girl friends for mutual rediscovery of each other."

"Forgetting that everyone changes, they were in a hurry to settle down, and as a result were far less critical than they would have been in normal times."

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, Nov. 30—The Seekers Class and Home Department of the Methodist Church met November 26 with Mrs. Frank Elliott, Mrs. Adam Koenig presiding and Mrs. Webb Kniffen in charge of the devotions. Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Elliott gave the lesson. Christmas plans were made and committees appointed. The Christmas meeting will be held in the church parlor afternoon of December 31. Committee in charge will be Mrs. Alvin Beatty, Mrs. Frank Gulnac and Mrs. Charles Mertz. After the meeting the hostess served delicious refreshments in the dining room. Mrs. Mertz presided.

Boy Scouts of Troop 75 will meet their new scoutmaster and other Scouters evening of December 3 at St. Joseph's Center. Plans will be made to assist in the drive for war stricken sufferers in Europe and the Far East.

First place in the Art Club poster contest went to Sadie Penzato, who received two tickets to the junior play. Other winners were Jimmy and Myrtle Ruiz and John Heinsohn, who received one ticket each. At the meeting of the club on Monday Ella McElree was elected a member. The club expects to start some Christmas projects at an early date.

Miss Martha Elting of Sparta, N. J., who drove south with Mrs. E. McLauri, Mrs. Chase and Mrs. Higbee, will spend the winter with the Charles LeFevres at Winter Park. Mrs. Higbee also will live in Winter Park. Mrs. McLauri and Mrs. Chase will be at their little home in Orlando.

The American Legion basketball team is making fast progress, practice sessions being held Wednesday and Thursday evenings. At Highland last week in a practice game with the Marlborough town team New Paltz won 38 to 27.

Florida's Lush Season May Not Be So Lush

Miami, Fla., Nov. 30 (AP)—A sober warning that Florida's expected lush winter season may not be so lush was voiced by Francis J. Hamilton, president of the Greater Miami Hotel Association last night.

Hotel reservations, barometer of greater Miami's seasonal potential, are only equal to those of the 1941-42 winter season, Hamilton said, and that year was the poorest since the '30 depression.

For December, considered the start of the season, only 50 per cent of the available hotel space has been reserved. Sixty per cent of capacity has been

MONEY AND DIVORCE

In a study of divorce cases from 1925 to 1945 recently made by a court in a northern Ohio county, the figures show that there were 4,600 divorces in 1925. The number dropped to 3,140 in the depression year of 1932. In 1945 they rose to 7,720 cases. In 1932 the divorce cases were 18.4 per cent of the total number of civil cases. In 1945 they were 64.7 per cent of the total.

When folks are poor are they able to get on better than when they have money? Or is it that the cost of divorce was prohibitive during depression years and that many of the present actions were delayed until now? War caused some of the rise, no doubt, but probably not all.

These are questions not fully answered. But it remains true that when a family is having a hard time, common danger and anxiety are apt to pull them together. People who amount to anything tend to put a strong shoulder to the wheel that pushes against disaster. They are too busy thinking of the necessity of the moment for all, and the future of children especially, to think too much about themselves. When life becomes easier and there are jobs for women as well as plenty of opportunity for men, it's easy to let small differences upset a family.

The seed of hasty war marriages made without any consideration of the future is now bearing the fruit of equally unconsidered divorces. It will be well for society at large and for the next generation of children if young people will take more thought from now on as to what they are getting into, and once inside the yoke will make real effort at making marriages successful.

ROADSIDE EYESORES

Cheers are due the American Automobile Association. At its San Francisco convention it voted a campaign to rid the roadsides of "tumbledown shanties, rickety restaurants, unkempt filling stations, junkyards and signs of every description." This is a rather fair picture of the average American highway for much of its length. Many of the structures are eyesores, and often by blocking the view they are menaces to safe driving.

What can be done about it? State zoning laws are regarded as the answer and will be sought by the Association. It is suggested that a 1,000-foot strip on either side of the road be made out-of-bounds for such blots on the landscape. If people insist of disfiguring their own property outside of the 1,000-foot limit, presumably that concession must be made to their American right of doing as they please.

It is only fair to add, in this connection, that many of the owners of the unsightly buildings referred to are awaiting with impatience the opportunity to get paint and lumber and nails and other materials with which to brighten their sandwich stands and gas stations. There is already a noticeable cleaning up and sharpening up since the war. But the presence of the new makes the old look even worse than before, and far too many eyesores still remain. There is little excuse for them now and soon there will be none.

HIDDEN TAXES

The levelling processes of the war and of a Socialist government have made incomes in England more nearly equal than was the case in what some people consider the good old days. This fact influences Hugh Dalton, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to come out in favor of more indirect taxes.

From such taxes come the subsidies which have been keeping down the cost of food and housing, and they are paid willingly by the people, who buy taxable luxury items in great quantities. Workmen, unwilling to put forth the effort to make more money, only, as they figure it, to pay it out in income tax, pay far more in hidden taxes.

Some day, some leader among the people will present to them in clear and simple terms the economic principles involved in taxation

HOLLYWOOD CIVILIZATION

Sam Goldwyn was right in his criticism of Hollywood, but wrong in his conclusion as to the reason why that spot on the American periphery gives the impression of such general dumbness. Hollywood, Sam Goldwyn thinks, is in the doldrums; no new ideas, no brilliance, no growth. And he thinks that it is because writers, directors, actors, everybody is too rich.

But John D. Rockefeller built a great industrial empire after he became rich; even more, he created educational and charitable institutions of the greatest service to mankind after he grew rich. Henry Ford did not become soft and futile after he became rich. Booth Tarkington wrote some of his best stories after he did well by himself. Bernard Baruch has served his country vigorously since he has become a rich man. Thousands of Americans can be cited who achieved distinction and served their country well despite great riches.

Men of character do not become soft and futile because they have attained wealth. Of course, if character is lacking, wealth, as poverty, will bring to the surface every debasement of personality, but wealth is worse than poverty because it makes the poisons of living more readily available. It is not because a movie star was once an elevator girl that makes her no good; it is because her character was no better in one condition of life than it is in another.

Essentially what is wrong with Hollywood is that it has attracted to itself too many exhibitionists; it has overemphasized the role of the press agent, the creator of synthetic personalities. It has become a queer assemblage of amazing personalities. Here is a place for writers who do not write. They prepare scripts which others prepare after them until no one can tell who has fathered the thing. Here are actors and actresses who do not act. They are directed. "Raise your arm an inch higher!" "Lower your eyelid a tenth of an inch." Imagine Sarah Bernhardt being directed in that manner by anyone, being drilled in lines, drilled in gestures, trained in emotions, fixed in voice volume as a machine. These people have become human sound tracks.

And the public senses it and that is why Sam Goldwyn worries, and that is why the bankers who finance Hollywood are frightened by what they call the British invasion. Do they not recognize that for many years the best actors and some of the best directors have come here from Europe? There has been an invasion for a long time. And the invaders compare too favorably with the indigenous Hollywood type.

The real trouble is that Hollywood believes its own publicity. They who advertise their own immoralities, spreading stories about themselves which shame decent folks, making a mockery of marriage, elevating adultery and divorce to a property and a boast, exhibiting every indecency to the public gaze and hiring gossips to spread abroad tales of their misconduct, have come to believe that that is the American way of life.

That is the real trouble with Hollywood. It needs a cleansing. It needs new life and new blood. It needs character. It needs to restore itself to love of country, to service to country. It needs to rebel against the imitators of Communists, the intellectual playboys who pollute and pervert whatever they touch, making a mockery even of noble subjects by the subsequent public conduct of those who play the parts. The publicized romances, the publicized adulteries, the publicized divorces have become a stench in our land.

It will be said that this is a violent indictment of too many persons, of generalizing from particular incidents, and the finger will be pointed at this or that exception, at Sam Goldwyn or Bing Crosby—obvious exceptions to this criticism. But the tone of the indictment is true. The atmosphere of the indictment is correct. The name Hollywood, has become a symbolic in American life for social evil, as Boston once stood for literary achievement, as Indianapolis once symbolized the culture of the Middle West.

It is this atmosphere that is unwholesome and those individuals who resent these general assumptions concerning their industry need to wash the flavor of wormwood in their midst.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

INFECTIONS AND EMOTIONS

There is now so much talk about high blood pressure and so much of it is incorrect and upsetting, that some underlying facts are worth noting.

In the first place high blood pressure is often necessary as it is needed to push blood to parts of the body that would not get enough blood to supply their needs if the pressure behind the blood stream was not high. The cause for this part of the body not getting enough blood under ordinary blood pressure may be serious or not serious but in any case blood must reach it till the cause is corrected or removed. Thus a non-serious cause for high pressure to send blood to the part could be fear or other emotional disturbance causing the blood vessels to contract or tighten, making it necessary to have more pressure behind the blood to push it through these narrowed blood vessels.

A serious cause for high blood pressure is where the lining of the blood vessels because of infections are losing some of their elastic tissue which has been replaced by hard white fibrous tissue. This hard white tissue is like the scar tissue which follows a cut or other wound. It has no "give" or elasticity to it. Thus blood vessels whose lining contains this hard tissue arteriosclerosis, sclerosis meaning hard) will need a great amount of pressure behind the blood to enable the blood to go through them to distant parts of the body.

Unfortunately the mild cause of high blood pressure caused by the emotions can become serious in time because the blood vessels, kept under too much tension, lose some of their elasticity in time. For instance Dr. I. W. Held, Clinical Professor of Medicine, points out in Medical Clinics of North America that negroes seldom develop hardening of the arteries so long as they remain in the South, but not infrequently do so upon their removal to the North where the competitive struggle for a livelihood is acute and more destructive.

If, then, we can avoid infections, and acquire calmness of mind, we can delay high blood pressure.

systems, and bring Britons to realize that a subsidy is just a fancy name which covers the fact that their beer and tobacco are paying for a certain percentage of their food and shelter. Americans should use a little clearness about taxes, too.

WHAT IT MEANS

Puerto Rico's Independence Move

By LESLIE HIGLEY

Washington—An increasing trend in favor of independence is taking place in Puerto Rico as a result of the end of World War 2 and the clamor for liberation voiced by dependent peoples around the globe.

Puerto Rico was a colony of Spain for some 400 years and has been an island possession of the United States since 1898. It has 2,000,000 people.

The increasing independence sentiment has been reported by colonial experts here as the result of the recent formation of a political party in the Caribbean island to seek independence on the basis of self-determination.

1. Friendly negotiations with the United States.
2. Security for the Puerto Rican people under a liberal social and economic domestic policy when independence is achieved.

Shannon in 1942
This is the first time a political party with a platform based on independence has been organized in the island. Its strength will be tested in the 1948 elections.

Independence parties had been formed previously. They failed when they preached hostility or terrorism against the United States, or when they forgot their pledges after coming into power. The new Independence Party of Puerto Rico has been organized to offer evidence to the U. S. Congress and the federal administration that the island wants its freedom.

Party leaders say President Truman called upon Congress to allow Puerto Rico to choose its political future but that they do not expect Congress to authorize this plebiscite.

These leaders do not blame Congress. They feel the problems to be considered are of such magnitude that they prevent a speedy and conscientious solution.

Since they believe that a plebiscite authorized by Congress would be hard to obtain, independence enthusiasts want to have their own referendum.

The Popular party, in control in Puerto Rico, does not advocate any particular form of government. It is committed not to seek any, but the Republican and Socialist minority parties advocate statehood. The Liberal party, also a minority, wants a plebiscite.

One Independentista leader visiting here recently said: "If the people vote us into power, it will mean a majority of the voters are in favor of independence."

Could Embarrass Congress
With this support from the voters, the party could ask Congress to grant Puerto Rico its independence on the ground that the people want it. They give considerable importance to the fact that the party, if voted into power, would have a resident commissioner speaking for independence in the U. S. House of Representatives.

An interesting development in the formation of the new party is that it found itself with a three-vote minority in the Legislative Assembly without ever going to the polls. This three-vote minority is stronger than those of the other minority parties.

This is what happened: The Popular party controlled 54 of the 58 seats in both Senate and House. It elected several assemblymen strongly in favor of independence, but the executive body of the party decided that none of its members could belong to any organization supporting independence and to the party at the same time.

The three legislators belonged to the Congress of Puerto Rican Independence, a non-partisan organization ardently in favor of liberation. When the alternatives were put up to them, they resigned from the party, joined the new Independence party but did not resign their seats in the legislature.

Washington officials who deal with Puerto Rican affairs feel that the United States may be embarrassed if the independence movement takes control of the island government.

U. S. Relies On Marie
Meanwhile they are relying on Luis Munoz Marin, Senate president and leader of the Popular party, who has advised the people that the new party will create problems to the United States in its international relations.

He has told the people that the island's political future is the exclusive problem of the United States and Puerto Rico and that it will be up to him and his party to solve the problem when the time comes.

Puerto Rico got its first native governor in 450 years of Spanish and American colonial rule last August. This step, the people were told, was in line with both the Popular party and the federal administration's policies toward self-government.

Independents, however, have conceded no importance to the appointment. They say it does not solve any of the fundamental political, social or economic problems of the island.

"A Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

I recall that when I was a boy I used to like to climb up on top of the railing of the fence on the old Company Hill in the rear of Temple Emanuel on Abell street, and sit and survey the Rondout creek and the Hudson river.

Often in my mind's eye I could picture how the old creek must have looked when only Indians in their canoes sailed the waters.

I also recall the old steamers, tugs and steamboats that piled the river and creek. Those were the days when the old Skillyport ferry was running between Rondout and Sloatsburg, and the present Rondout Creek Bridge was only a dream of the future.

Those old days are recalled in reading from The Freeman in August, 1907, telling that the old side-wheeler Norwich of the Corners Line was being placed in commission on August 15, of that year when Captain Wellington B. Shultis at the helm.

In January, 1907, the old Ice King had burned and sank at her berth in the Rondout creek, near the Rhinecliff ferry slip. The old side-wheeler later in the summer was raised by the Baxter Wrecking Co. and towed to the Hiltbrand yard at South Rondout where she was entirely rebuilt.

It was not until August 15, of 1907, however, that the old vessel was ready to take up the daily grind of towing barges on the Hudson river.

Older readers will recall the years when the old Norwich was one of the best known toyboats in service on the Hudson river.

Turning from river to freemasonry affairs, Saturday night, August 17, 1907, marked the destruction by fire of the big West Shore railroad, just off Broadway connecting with a number of box cars, entailing an estimated loss of $250,000.

The fire was one of the most spectacular in years in the city, and gave the fire department a hard fight before it was brought under control.

The present freight house was built on the site of the one destroyed by fire, but the present structure is considerably nearer Broadway.

The old freight house was a building some 300 feet long, and at the time of the fire was filled to overflowing with all kinds of merchandise.

W. W. Brundage, after a service of three years with the local Y.M.C.A. as physical director, on August 20, 1907, filed his resignation to take effect September 1, of that year.

Mr. Brundage was resigning to take up "Y" work in a larger field.

I was a very active member of the "Y" during the years that Mr. Brundage was physical director, and I have always considered him one of the best men for the post that ever served the "Y."

Clifford H. Sampson was named physical director to succeed Mr. Brundage.

On September 3, 1907, Kingston lost one of its outstanding citizens when Frank R. Powley of the Kingston Coal Co. and the North River Coal Co. was transferred to the New York office of the North River Coal Co., wholesale distributors of D. & H. coal in the Hudson river valley area at that time.

Mr. Powley and his wife during the years he remained at the New York office made their home in Ridgewood, N. Y. In later years he and his wife returned to Kingston, and he remained with the two companies for a number of years.

During the many years Mr. Powley was active in the civic, business and musical life of Kingston he was widely and favorably known.

Well-Read Russians Like Serious Topics; Papers Ignore Sensational News

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Nov. 30 (AP)—There must be no press in the world which is so avidly read as the Soviet press.

Only a lack of newsprint keeps it from being the biggest press in any land and with more newsprint coming all the time, it may well become the world's largest in a matter of years.

Soviet newspapers have no large advertisements, no comics and no sport sections, as such. They carry no sex or sensational Railway wrecks, airplane crashes, fires and automobile smashups are not news in Russia.

Some advertisements are published here, however. A four-page daily called Evening Moscow devotes almost half its back page to ads. They cover such subjects as help wanted, announcements of new movies and the program for the Hippodrome racetrack.

Most Russian newspapers are four pages and have no advertisements, although the big regular dailies do carry small scheduled ads on theater and movies.

The biggest papers are: Pravda, organ of the Central Committee of the Communist Party; Izvestia, organ of the Soviets, of the deputies, of the laborers, of the government.

Trud, which means labor. There also is Red Star for the army and Red Fleet for the navy.

Newspaper for All Phases
There is a newspaper, of course, for all phases of life. There is the Pessant's Gazette, the paper which covers the arts. There are papers which devote columns to science and medicine and a sport paper for Soviet sports. In many cities and towns of Russia, are local Pravdas.

Newspapers here pass through many hands and it is no exaggeration to say that the every word is read by millions of persons daily. Newspapers also are posted up on walls and behind glass cases all over the cities, and crowds swarm around them.

Not Interested in Profit
Newspapers here are not interested in making money so the more people they reach, the happier they are, no matter if it is free.

The Russians do not have newspapers on the streets yelling out headlines and if they did, the headlines wouldn't be startling enough to halt a passerby as in the United States. The headline probably would be about a new blast furnace or about some comrades overfulfilled his plan in a factory. It would not be sensational.

The papers are featured by lengthy, erudite editorials and subjects. Presently a great amount of space is devoted to coverage of the United Nations. Editorials lecture themselves with the co-operatives and getting out labor services.

Sample Headlines
To give an idea, take the front page of a recent issue of Izvestia, here are the headlines over various stories:

An editorial, two columns wide at the upper left corner, is entitled "Improve Activities of Co-operatives." Also on the front page are four columns of anniversary greetings from abroad on the anniversary of the revolution; "On the Eve of Artillery Day"; "Potatoes for Leningrad"; "Bombs for Rural Libraries"; and "Cement Plants for Novorossiysk." Other front page stories are "Works of Lenin and Stalin Published in Uzbek Language"; "Call for Factory Schools and Railway Academies"; "Opening of Moscow Party School"; "Restoration of Moscow Leningrad Photocenter"; "Daily Petroleum Trust Fulfilled 11 Month Plan Ahead of Schedule"; and "Zhdanov's Report Published in White Russian Language."

There are papers of course, for the young komsozols and papers for children which obviously are in somewhat lighter vein. They are profusely illustrated.

One Comic Magazine
Russia has one strictly humorous magazine, Krokodil. It comes out weekly and contains caricatures, cartoons, jokes and humorous strips.

The country also has an ambitious weekly illustrated feature magazine called "Little Flame" which is excellently done and accompanied by good photographs and reproductions of paintings, sketches and other art.

There are magazines galore on the heavy side, featuring discussions on economics, technical and party subjects.

Most foreign news appears on the back pages of newspapers. Sometimes political cartoons are carried.

The foreign news is from Tass, telegraphic agency of the Soviet Union, which brings Russian readers news from all over the world.

New Senators

By LARRY J. HALL

Orem, Utah, Nov. 29 (AP)—Arthur V. Watkins, Utah's Republican senator-elect, says he is first and foremost a farmer and that he believes and understands a farmer's language.

Mr. Watkins, a Mormon church worker, who helped to break the Democrats' solid 14-year reign in Utah, says the way he feels now, one term in the Senate will be enough.

"I just want to do what has to be done and get it over with," he says.

"I'll be 60 when I go in and 66 when my term is up. A man's getting along in years then, and it's going to be hard work."

Only once before was Watkins a candidate for national office—for representative on the Republican ticket in 1936, the year the G.O.P. led by Landon was swept under by the Roosevelt tide.

I didn't win, but I beat Alf in Utah, Watkins quips.

In 1943 Watkins went to Chicago as delegate to the Republican national convention. He was part of the western bloc which succeeded in having a "Problems of the West" plank inserted in the platform.

While a district judge, he campaigned to have the huge Deer Creek Reservoir Project completed. He believes the power supplied by the reservoir had much to do with the location of the huge Geneva steel plant in Utah.

He has come out strongly for tightened and long range labor legislation, for trying to balance the budget and for a comprehensive reclamation program, but says: "I'm open minded."

In answer to an interview question about a possible revival of the Fair Employment Practices Commission, Watkins said quickly:

"I favor it; no discrimination. . . and while we're on the subject I think the poll tax ought to be kicked out."

He favors reducing federal expenditures "if it can be done."

One item he does not advocate cutting is Interior Department funds for reclamation projects.

"That money is invested and will return wealth to the country," Watkins said.

The new senator has four daughters, two of them married and two in high school, and one son. He was born at Midway, Utah, and has lived in this state all his life except while attending New York University and Columbia University.

Real Estate Luncheon

The New York State Association of Real Estate Boards will officially launch its 1947 program on December 6 with a state-wide luncheon at the DeWitt Clinton Hotel in Albany. Walter S. Dayton of Bayside, Long Island, will be formally installed as the 43rd president, succeeding Horace Carpenter, Jr., of Buffalo. Mr. Dayton in his inaugural address will discuss some of the major real estate problems of today and outline the organization's program for the year. It is expected that he will take a very positive stand on rent control, public housing and other legislation affecting real property and its ownership. The Association proposes to pursue vigorous action during the coming year to eliminate many of the restrictions that have stifled the development of realty interests in providing adequate housing for the people of the state.

Rural Church Television

Ithaca — A successful rural church television program was presented November 20th at Schenectady by a group of rural people from near here. The program was given over the General Electric station. The players were a group from the Caroline Valley Federated Church in the Tobey Larger Parish who have been in religious drama for many years. A dramatization of Milton's painting, "The Angelus" was selected for the occasion and is believed to be the first rural church television program ever given in this country.

Bazaar at St. Paul's

The annual church bazaar of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, 355 Hasbrouck avenue, will be held December 3, beginning at 5:30 p. m., when a pork and sauerkraut supper will be served. Booths of fancy work, fish pond, aprons, etc., will be attended by the various church organizations. At the close of the evening moving pictures will be shown. ## Midnight Mass

Monsignor E. R. Gaffney, chancellor of the New York Archdiocese, in a letter to all pastors, announces that his Eminence, Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, has granted permission for Midnight Mass to be celebrated on Christmas in all churches throughout the diocese.

Spire's Gilt Saved

How to remove the camouflage paint from the gilded cupolas of the huge Cathedral of St. Isaac, in Leningrad, without taking off the gilt as well, has puzzled Russian scientists since the end of the war. Professor Soltau, of the Leningrad Mining Institute, has now found the answer. The 16,000 square feet of gilt will be gently treated with compresses of a special soda solution. Experiments have proved that this does not damage the gilt. It is expected that the famous cathedral will soon be again its glittering self.

Coltee originally was sold by pharmacists for medicinal use only.

THE CAMERA CORNER

When You Take Color Portraits

Any competent amateur who has learned to light and take a good black-and-white portrait study in his home can do the same thing in color. But not, unfortunately, by simply changing the film in his camera.

The rules of the color game are different as far as lighting goes. And there are a few new rules to learn—about color harmony, make-up, and posing. Learn them at the beginning. Otherwise, you'll be sorry and so will your results. Color film is too valuable to waste.

Using black-and-white film, you have a pretty wide latitude in exposure. Using color film—whether Ansco Color or Kodachrome—you don't. In fact, it's better to assume you don't have any at all. Your exposure must be right on the nose. With that attitude you'll have a very slight margin for error, but don't count on it.

Lighting for Color
The basic lighting rule for color goes something like this: Use flat, even lighting (without much contrast between areas of highlight and shadow). Get the colors to do the job of contrast and emphasis. You can violate it, sure, as you can any rule, but you'll run into trouble and your colors may change color on you when you're not looking.

Now what about lighting from the practical side? To light the face, here is one system that works. Place two floodlamps of equal strength on each side of the camera. For best results you must use 3200 Kelvin lights. Raise one above the head level of the subject and lower the other one below his or her eye level. You may want to move the high floodlamp slightly closer to the subject to produce a little modeling in the features.

To give an added zest to the face, put a spot or flood behind the subject so that its light just touches the side of the face away from the camera. Don't forget to shield it from the lens of the camera. On second thought, backlighting is tricky in color work and maybe you'd better not try it until you're sure of yourself with good, straight front lighting.

The main thing at first is to get all areas in the picture well lighted from the front with a minimum of shadows, the background as well as the subject. The background takes up a big share of a portrait. It should be plain and it should complement the color of the face and clothes. Gray is your best bet; it goes with all colors and you can't go wrong with it. Blue in light shades is good with blondes, young people and babies. Light green is satisfactory, too. But avoid white and, above all, colors that are close to flesh tones, like yellows, pinks, or tans.

Finally, rely on your exposure meter as if it were your last friend.

PICTURE OF THE WEEK: The lighting is the important thing in this photograph after the natural appeal of the subjects. Very few people sleep in the glare of spotlights as most pictures of this kind would lead you to believe. Here the light has been placed to give the effect of an accidental intrusion like the sudden opening of a door. However, it is a bit too close to the subjects and too harsh. Pulling it back a little would have improved the picture and lighted all of the girl's head. Taken on Ansco Finopan film with an exposure of 1/2 second at f 6.3.

Photo Forum

1. Can a scratch be removed from a lens surface?

ANSWER: Frankly, no. At least there's nothing you can do to remove it. If it isn't too deep a scratch, the manufacturer might be able to grind or polish it off without injuring too much the optical quality of the lens. Or if it's one element of a multiple lens, you may be able to get another element (but probably not). Some lens glass is soft; it can be scratched with a fingernail. Use the utmost care in cleaning lenses and protect them with a lens cap. Lens tissue which is recommended for cleaning lenses can be obtained at any photo store.

A Tip in Time
The important thing in baby photography is fast shooting to catch split-second action or expression. The best combination for this problem is a fast pan film with flash.

Just because color film is available to get all the colors of the rainbow into each picture to get your money's worth. A little color goes a long way. Try a subject with only a few color variations. You'll be surprised.

Those very small bubbles that you can see in some lenses are nothing to worry about. They don't impair the efficiency of the lens at all and usually indicate a high quality lens.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME (Registered U. S. Patent Office)

By Jimmy Hall

The problem of the back-seat driver is not going to be solved until a car is built that travels faster than sound.

A couple of morons pooled their bankrolls and bought a second-hand car. They went driving up the mountains, going around corners and dangerous curves at sixty miles an hour. Finally one moron couldn't stand it any longer.

First Moron—Every time you go around one of those hairpin curves so fast, I get frightened.

Other Moron—If you get frightened, why don't you do like I do?—I keep my eyes closed!

First Business Man—Since I bought a car I don't have to walk to the bank to make deposits any more.

Second Business Man—You drive there, eh?

First Business Man—No, I don't make any.

Have you ever noticed that, as a rule, the cheaper the car, the more dignified the driver?

Wife—I can't decide whether to go to a palmist or to a mind-reader.

Husband—Go to a palmist. It's obvious that you have a palm.

Spic and Span Women who look chick in slacks. Says one admiring reader fan. Are those who manage to look spic without displaying their span.

Asylum Patient (to new appointee)—Who are you?

Appointee—I am the new superintendent.

Asylum Patient—Oh, it won't take them long to knock that out of you. I was Napoleon when I came here.

Our neighbor boasts that he has been driving a car for five years and never had a wreck. As for us, we've been driving a wreck for five years and never had a car.

Definitions Marriage: An institution which teaches a man thrift, regularity and many other splendid virtues he wouldn't need if he stayed single.

Inflation: is when the 25-cent meal you are paying 50 cents for, goes to a dollar.

After-Dinner Speaking: An occupation monopolized by men—women can't wait that long.

America: A country where they look up injuries and let the defendants out.

Alcohol: A liquid good for preserving almost everything except secrets.

Conduct is the test of intelligence. The path of selfishness is the road to ruin.

Girls Loves Out One of Scotland's wartime land girls, or farmerettes, recently answered a farmer's "ad" for a shepherd, but was told she could not handle the work and that a man was wanted. She asked why, Glasgow reports, and was told by the farmer: "Well, a woman once tried it and made a mess of the job." "Who was she?" asked the girl. "Bo-Peep," he replied.

Flyers May Obtain Light Plane Tour Applications Now

Application blanks for the sixth annual Gulf light plane tour to Florida are now available to any pilot or owner of a plane of less than 125 horse-power, it is announced by Jed Wright, Gulf airport dealer at the Gardiner airport.

The air tour, in which it is expected a record number of flyers will participate, starts January 2 and ends January 26. Four separate Gulf airways to Florida have been established and some 40 refueling points have been designated along these airways, which converge at Orlando, Fla., and branch out from there to the Florida east and west coasts.

Any flyer in this area who intends to make this flight should get his application blank with-out delay and send it in, Mr. Wright said. He will then receive a book of coupons which will give him free oil and gasoline, provided by Gulf at the designated refueling points for all participants in the tour, it was added.

The air tour will once again be participated in by flyers from all over the country. Flyers can take off and land wherever they choose and have no cumbersome regulations to comply with, Mr. Wright said. Gulf's purpose in this tour, as expressed by Major Al Williams, noted flyer and head of the Gulf Aviation Department, is to encourage flyers to use their planes as transport vehicles. The air tour is an inducement to cross-country flying. Already a number of pilots are said to have indicated their intention to take part in the tour and it is hoped that every flyer who can qualify will do so.

New Hormone Seems to Cure Peptic Ulcers

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

A. P. Newsfeatures Writer

Chicago—Discovery of a new hormone which apparently cures peptic ulcers is a reward for years of research.

A team of Chicago scientists, back in 1928, joined in the centuries-old hunt of a chemical that would heal the gnawing sores afflicting a million Americans.

Scene of the research was Northwestern University's medical school. The men who did the work are Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, physiologist and now executive vice president of the Chicago professional schools of the University of Illinois; Dr. Morton L. Grossman, another physiologist now at Illinois; and two members of the Northwestern medical faculty—Dr. Harry Greengard, who handled most of the chemical phases, and Dr. Arthur J. Atkinson.

In time the investigation was focused on a hormone found in the mucous lining of the intestinal tract of freshly slaughtered hogs. The problem of extracting it was solved in this way.

Strips of the first six or eight feet of the intestine were turned inside out, and washed in an acid solution to leach out the hormone, the liquid was filtered off, and a purifying process. The product was a colorless substance. They called it "enterogastrone."

Dogs with ulcers were given daily injections of "enterogastrone" for a year. Then the treatments were halted. It was expected that ulcers would develop again in a few months. But they didn't. The earliest recurrence was 18 months.

The post-experiment record of one group of ten dogs is this: One succumbed to a perforated ulcer after 28 months. Eight others, all free of ulcers, died of various causes at intervals ranging from 11 months to four years after the injections were discontinued. One still is living, in fine fettle, nearly six years after the test.

In another group of five dogs, one died of perforated ulcer two and a half years after the trial period. The others demonstrated they have received lasting protection.

"We established," comments Dr. Ivy, "that it prevents ulcers in dogs."

Says Payroll Savings Plan Helps Country

Washington, D. C.—Richard R. Deupree, president of Procter & Gamble Company, one of the country's outstanding industrialists, today urged countrywide support by both industry and labor of the United States Savings Bonds program.

To the worker he said: "The systematic purchase of U. S. Savings Bonds by means of payroll deductions makes for the development in the workingman and woman of a valuable thrift habit. It gives to the average worker that magical feeling of security which can be his only when he knows that he has a needed cash reserve with which to meet any and every emergency. Furthermore, the regular purchase of Savings Bonds in this practically painless manner builds up a store of income, and this, in turn, means that purchasing power which will ultimately affect the community and the nation as a whole has been created and put aside for advantageous use at some future time, when goods and services will be in more plentiful supply."

To management Mr. Deupree declared: "Nowadays we have come to recognize that the subject of employee-employer relations is a complicated one, and that it is made up of many varied components. Surely it is the goal of all of us to achieve the very highest kind of employee-employer relations, and to that end various courses of action are being initiated and pursued throughout this nation. Let us not overlook the fact that the worker who proudly possesses a stake in the future security of his country is bound to be the better, more conscientious, more completely adjusted worker—and the better citizen, as well. I have come to regard this Payroll Savings Plan, by which working men and women in all economic levels may provide for their own future through systematic purchase of U. S. Savings Bonds, as the finest tool with which to cement the best kind of employee-employer relations in the shops, plants and factories of America."

27-Year Strike Record Is Broken in 1946

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—The number of workers involved in strikes so far in 1946 has broken a record which stood for 27 years, with December still to be heard from.

The Bureau of Labor statistics announced 4,095,000 persons figured in walkouts through October. Adding the 400,000 soft coal miners who left their jobs last week runs the total far beyond the previous high of 4,160,000 in 1919, also a post war year in which the miners went out under the leadership of John L. Lewis. Man-days lost in the first ten months of this year were figured by the Bureau as 102,525,000. It did not keep man-day records in 1919.

Schirick Dismissed Annulment Action

Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick has recently dismissed an uncontested action for annulment which involved a soldier defendant and his wife who had lived together for 14 years before the wife brought an action for annulment on the grounds the defendant has not lived up to his pre-marriage promises.

Justice Schirick says in a memorandum which accompanied the dismissal of the wife's action, "it seems inconceivable that a wife could have remained deceived for a period of 14 years."

The action was brought by Dorothy B. Smith of Albany against her husband, Kenneth R. Smith, and was heard by Justice Schirick at special term in Albany in October. Parties were married on September 15, 1928 and lived together until April 1, 1942 when the defendant was inducted into the army. Plaintiff testified that in September of that year she visited the defendant at Battle Creek, Mich., and was told by her husband, "he wanted me to know the truth; that he was finished with our marriage; that he married me solely for the purpose of having a home on my father's property; that he never had any intention of having any children or providing a house for us separately and apart from my father's house."

Justice Schirick in his memorandum says that plaintiff testified that the defendant's representations prior to the marriage were contrary to the foregoing statement and on that ground the annulment was sought.

"Proof in the case consists solely of the plaintiff's unsupported testimony. The action might be dismissed, therefore, for failure to comply with Section 1143 of the Civil Practice Act, which requires corroboration. The court does not, however, rest its decision upon such narrow grounds. In any equitable action, and especially in a matrimonial action, the proof must be such as to convince the court that the plaintiff has, and in good faith asserts, a meritorious claim. Especially is this the case where the defendant has defaulted and the court must itself safeguard the public interest in the stability of the marriage institution. In this case, it seems inconceivable that a wife could have remained deceived for a period of 14 years, the court states.

"Annulment is not divorce. While there may be no time limit, as a matter of law, a court must necessarily be suspicious of claims of fraud which are asserted so long after the marriage." he concluded and dismissed the action. Vincent D'Anza appeared for plaintiff.

Nobody Wants European Frogs So They're Released

San Diego, Calif., Nov. 30 (AP)—Two dozen European frogs, air travelers from far away Vienna, Austria, found freedom in the "Land of the Free" today because nobody wanted them.

They came air express, collect, addressed to Maj. Chapman Grant, herpetologist of the San Diego Natural History Museum, who is away on a trip. His wife and associates said he never ordered them. The San Diego Zoo also declined to give them a home.

The air express agency finally conferred with customs agents and got permission to get rid of the frogs by liberating them in a lily pond. Nobody knew the sender, a Corp. Helmut Braunsteiner.
